Executive Board Election

- Five candidates to fill two seats
- Instant run-off voting is used in the election
- Ranking candidates:
 - You must fill at least one preference for a ballot to be considered valid (or choose to abstain)
 - You must number your candidates in order of preference with 1 being your top preference
 - You can choose to fill as many preferences as there are candidates

Instant Run-off Voting

- Instant Run-off Voting is a preferential voting system where candidates must receive more than 50% of top preference votes to be elected
- If no candidate receives more than 50% in a round of voting, the candidate with the fewest top preference votes is eliminated
- The system then recalculates after redistributing votes according to the order of preference
- This process of elimination and recalculation continues until a candidate receives more than 50% of top preference votes
- For the second seat, the ballots are re-used and the process remains the same (discounting the votes for the winner of the first seat)
